He loved his family, Jesus and his country.

He is preceded in death by his parents; stepfather, Carson; brother, Joseph.

Now he is soaring on eagle's wings.

“ Randy;
I don't know what i can say, you are my oldest brother and I will miss you. I was reflecting on growing up with you the other day thinking you shot me in the head with a BB gun, hacked my arm with a machete, stabbed me with a frog gig in the foot, took me to a bus station when i was 4 to trade me for a bus ticket to Grandmas, but you also were there to protect me when the black kids in Danville didn't want a white kid in their school. (Poor rental planning on Dads part).

You were there through the years when I held onto grudges way too long. We were not much alike but you were always my brother.

You were always my brother. You even drove me and a girl to my first dance.

You were always my brother. Good bad or indifferent, you are my brother.
