Dear Bernelda, Mari, and family,

God's timing is always the right timing even if we don't know WHY on this earth. My thoughts and prayers are with all of you. The verse below has helped me through a lot, hope it helps you too.

"Death is God carrying us in one of His arms, while the other flings aside Heaven's door to welcome us back to the blazing hearth of our first home, while those inside, having arrived long before us, rush to the door like God's children shouting ~ they're home!! Death has a bad name on earth but in heaven, it's a homecoming party every time the door opens. And God does not forget His earth-bound children sad & left behind. He leaves the party early to enter into their despair and to get them ready for their own parties someday." Author unknown
